

HOW TO BE AN EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATOR

PO CHENG (DERICK) OU

GBT 1030 spring 2022

Tutoring in 826 Boston, I am able to learn that an effective community is essential for volunteering in such organizations. My area of focus is tutoring children from elementary to high school. Tutoring at 826 Boston, I have noticed that being able to communicate effectively is one of the most important things in tutoring. Below are the reasons why effective communication is important and skills to have to have to be an effective communicator.

1 Attitude

A positive attitude is reflected into your thoughts, ideas, and tone. Having a positive attitude is more likely to be understood by students and more likely for students to respond to it.

2

Create a safe environment

An environment where students are able to ask questions are crucial to their academic success. We can do this by supporting the student's and giving them a chance to answer questions before giving the correct answer.

3 Body Language

The use of body language can increase the energy in the classroom and students are more likely to engage back. Some ways is to nod when the students speak and use hand gesture when talking or explaining.

4

Active Listening

Over 60% of poor communication is due to poor listening. Therefore, I think that listening to other people is important. Mastering listening can correct misunderstandings between tutors and students, leading to better academic environment

5 Feedback

Studies shown that giving constructive and positive feedback allow students to build confidence. Students will be more engaged in the session if feedback is given, because they will know what they are doing well and what they need to improve on.

References :

Gavoni, P. (2015, June 5). The art of effectively communicating with students (and staff!). Edutopia. Retrieved April 13, 2022, from <https://www.edutopia.org/discussion/art-effectively-communicating-students-and-staff>

Sword, R. (2022, March 29). Communication in the classroom: Skills for teachers. The Hub | High Speed Training. Retrieved April 13, 2022, from <https://www.highspeedtraining.co.uk/hub/communication-skills-for-teachers/>